

"New tools for managing social risks in childhood: establishing an international platform for student and expert staff."

Implemented with the financial support of the Federal Agency for Youth Affairs (Rosmolodezh) (as part of the all-Russian Youth Projects Competition among institutions of higher education in 2018)

The project in the format of international student and expert exchange platform, formed on the basis of the Scientific Student Society of the Legal and Forensic Psychology Faculty (MSUPE), presents various forms of exchanging experience in the implementation of programs and policies for minors and young people in Russia, Germany and Finland who find themselves in a crisis situation, in conflict with the law and other situations of social risk.

Challenges of our time in the field of social risks of childhood (such as aggressive, criminal, deviant, addictive, antisocial behavior, new types of deviations caused by technological progress) that are relevant for all countries give to society and professional communities the task of finding new approaches and technologies to work with these problems.

Short-term internships of Russian students and specialists in Germany and Finland, seminars and workshops of foreign experts, scientific events, conferences, integrated cultural and educational projects, the development of an interdisciplinary research program, the establishment of real and virtual platforms for sharing experience, are designed to ensure the transmission of effective social and psychological and pedagogical technologies to professional and student communities of the three countries.
